

Mr Adventure's Awesome Adventure

By Madison Hall

Ding dong! Ding dong! I woke. It was pitch black. I slowly climbed out of my bed shaking and quickly scrambled to find a light switch. When I could see, I quietly tiptoed down the stairs and froze at the bottom because I heard a weird voice coming from outside the door...

"Open the door now!"

I nervously opened the creaky door, but there was no one there? There was only a golden letter, so I picked it up and as I opened the letter, a ticket fell out.

I looked at the ticket with wonder, it read 'Dear Madi, you have been chosen to go on a mysterious adventure. Please say yes.....or else! From Mr Adventure.'

I thought for a very long time about my reply. I made up my mind not to go.

In the morning, I followed my usual routine and caught the bus to school. However, when I was at school all these strange things started happening. My teacher wanted us to do maths, but I just randomly picked up a book and started reading? Then later she said to write a story, instead I opened my lunchbox and started eating my lunch! What was going on? Could this have to do with the letter from Mr Adventure? I wondered. After a crazy day, I arrived back home and went straight to the ticket. I pointed at it and said, "I will go, but you need to make this the Best Adventure Ever!"

Bang! A portal opened and it sucked me right in. Smack! I hit the ground. After a moment or two I stood up and my jaw dropped. I was standing on the sky and clouds. The grass, flowers and trees were above me. I slowly wondered through the mysterious land; everything was upside down. It looked strange and amazing at the same time. I soon came across a house, but it was unlike the rest of this land as it wasn't upside down, well to me anyway. Its pointy black roof was balancing on the shiny green grass, its foundations in the clouds like me. I stepped inside and made myself comfortable. In the corner of the room was a soft velvet blanket covering a small wooden bed, I curled up and soon fell asleep. That night I dreamt of this new wonderous land and imagined what I could explore and what I would see on this adventure I had been chosen for.

The next morning as I woke, I saw a brightly coloured map sitting on a table that wasn't there before. I excitedly picked up the map and started planning my day. I eagerly stepped out the front door and began exploring. First stop, the place marked as 'waterpark' on the map. It wasn't too hard to find, and I soon saw a giant upside-down waterfall that cascaded onto a rainbow and into the clouds. It was magical. I spent a long time sliding down the brightly coloured rainbow waterslide over and over again. It was so much fun.

I was starting to become hungry, so I looked at my map and decided to find my next landmark. When I arrived all I could see and smell were lollies. A huge colourful sign above me read 'Candy Land'. My stomach growled. I looked in front of me and saw a long rainbow trail leading around the clouds. I eagerly followed the trail, filling my mouth with delicious, sweet cloud fairy floss along the way, it led to a garden of lollipops. This was unlike anything I had seen before and reminded me of an all you can eat buffet. I reached for a small pink lollipop and the moment I picked it another one instantly grew in its place. As soon as I tasted the lollipop, I knew this wasn't going to be just your average lollipop, its savoury taste caught my tastebuds instantly, it was like I was back at home enjoying Mums' sausage rolls, warm and tasty. Then out of the corner of my eye I saw a chocolate river. I started running towards it but got stuck in a giant sour strap vine. I managed to eat my way through the sourest yet most sweet sour strap in no time and finally reached the chocolate river. The first thing I saw was a big chocolate waterfall, splashing me as it fell from the mountains above. I slurped up the warm smooth chocolate by putting my mouth under the waterfall. I love chocolate and this was the best chocolate I had ever had. Once I had eaten all my tummy could hold, I rested down by the chocolate river and couldn't help but think of home. This has been an amazing adventure so far, but I was starting to miss my family and friends. I took out Mr Adventures map and decided to visit one last destination for today. Gem Mountain.

As I walked along the path, a huge rocky mountain shadowed in front of me, like everything in this upside-down land the bottom of the mountain was above me and the pointy top was below me. About halfway down the mountain I noticed a dark cave, shining with a dim purple light. I stepped inside and saw a huge pile of rainbow gems, all shining brightly in different shapes and sizes. A huge purple gem the size of my hand glowed brighter, its sparkle more vivid than the rest, I reached for it and just as I had wrapped my fingers around its dazzling edges, Bang! Another portal opened. Through the blurry hole I could vaguely make out a bedroom, MY bedroom. This was it, the end of my amazing adventure, if I chose to step back through the portal. Was I ready for it to end? I gripped the gem tightly, inhaled a huge breath and took a step inside the portal, a step into my bedroom.

Dear Madi,
you have been chosen to go on a mystery adventure, please say yes or ELSE!!

From Mr Adventure.
